USC students need a way to conveniently call attention to/report problems regarding campus or any other university-related problems, as there is no current streamlined method.

I chose this as my problem statement because I feel as if things are very disjointed regarding campus management and that there is no convenient way for students to rally and have their voices heard. Many issues exist in the student experience here and there is no better way to improve than to have students report the problems themselves.

Creating a web application could absolutely help this issue greatly. The app could function similar to social media but with petitions with every post. For example, say someone almost gets hit by someone on a scooter going 25mph on a sidewalk. They could go onto the app and post about it with a proposed solution and have people support it and leadership address it.

Clearer communication, better sense of community, and a better overall school are just a few benefits that having an app like this would have. The app would require a lot of cooperation to make, but overall, it would be a great addition to the school.
